Commission will oversee local utilities

The Minden Water System, which has been beset by administrative and financial problems for several years, now seems to be in worse financial shape than was originally thought, and Minden municipal council is preparing to form a utilities commission to oversee the operation of the water and sewer systems in a bid to straighten out the two accounts.

Councillor Ed Pergolas, who has spearheaded a recent move to take over the administration of both systems from the Ministry of the Environment, told council at a meeting June 23, "The water system is in worse shape than I ever dreamed it was." Citing an outstanding debt of $58,000 for the installation of the water tower and extensions in 1977, Pergolas told the group that the municipality currently shells out $6,000 in interest charges on the debt, which he claims could have been settled by January 1 of 1980. Acting on a motion by Pergolas, council decided at the Wednesday meeting that a special commission was needed to clear up the difficulties.

Pergolas told the meeting that the new body was a "first step" in rectifying sewer and water accounts. "This is the first step to see if we can clear things up, because there is a lot of clearing up to do," Pergolas said during the Wednesday session.

Pergolas also told the group that the MOE has overcharged the municipality roughly $9,958 because of an incorrect calculation of the total footage of the Minden water system. According to Pergolas, the frontage, which is billed at a rate of 89 cents per foot by the MOE, has been calculated at 13,820 by the Ministry, instead of the 7,068 listed on the municipal tax assessment roll. Had the $58,000 been paid by the municipality some years ago, Pergolas said, interest payments made by the municipality would have been lower by 20 per cent, or $6,000. Pergolas estimated that the municipality has been overpaying the province as much as $16,000 when the footage and interest payments are taken together.

The discrepancies in footage estimates can only be resolved by a physical survey,

Pergolas objects to Walker's stand on provisional status

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Lloyd Walker continues to be hesitant about supporting the county's move to drop "provisional" from its title, and Walker's stand has now become the cause of strong disagreement at Minden municipal council.

Walker and councillor Ed Pergolas engaged in a heated exchange at a meeting of Minden council June 23 over Walker's conduct at a recent county council session. Both Pergolas and County Warden Ron Gambell, who attended the meeting to discuss the BIA's recent request for a planning study for Minden, told Walker in strong terms that the county has nothing to lose by the move, but Walker maintained that he was unwilling to take a stand until he had "more information" on the issue.

The exchange between Walker and Pergolas began late Wednesday evening, with the council on the verge of adjourning the meeting for the night. "I want to clear the air on this provisional issue," Pergolas announced to council. "Evidently, Lloyd, you're still against the move, even though we've given you a mandate at municipal council to vote in favour of it," Pergolas told Walker in measured tones.

Pergolas, who attended the Kilcoo Camp session of county council June 16 to hear a presentation by government policy advisor

Ted Foster on the repercussions of the move, asked Walker, "Why are you making a mockery out of our council by continuing to argue against it when we've given you a mandate in favour of the move?"

Walker and Snowdon reeve Bob Vick both questioned Foster's assurances that education grants would not be affected by the move during the Kilcoo meeting, and Walker went on to argue that, unless there was something to be gained by the move, the county should maintain its present status as a "provisional" county.

Pergolas pressed Walker on the issue of how he would cast his vote at county council when the provisional issue came up for official vote, and Walker responded that he would vote only, "when I have more information on the change. Would you want to vote for something you were going to lose by?" Walker twice asked Pergolas in debating the issue.

According to Deputy

The figures come from a special audit of the two accounts by the McGilivray accounting firm of Toronto at the end of 1980. According to Pergolas, an MOE chief accountant in Toronto has confirmed McGilivray's findings.

The new commission, to be named the Minden Utilities Commission, will oversee the operation and control of both the water and sewer systems in the municipality. The new body will consist of five members: the chief operator of both systems (Gene Newell), members of the municipal finance committee, Councillors Ed Pergolas and Lyle McKnight, the township's account officer Bev Miller and one member of the general public.

Pergolas said following the meeting, and authorities involved have already been working on the problem for several years.

Government members of the new utilities commission meet tonight to come up with a recommendation for a public member of the group. The five-person body will then begin a close examination of account books in an effort to straighten out the utilities financial woes.

Following a suggestion made by councillor Lyle McKnight at the June 23 meeting, the commission may also include the municipal street lighting system once it has been brought under municipal control.

Youths sentenced following thefts

Four Minden area youths received jail terms and two years probation after they pleaded guilty to a number of break, enter and theft charges in Provincial Court June 22. The four appeared before Judge George Inrig.

Douglas Moffat, 16, pleaded guilty to break-ins at two cottages on Mountain Lake and two cottages on Beer Lake as well as a break-in at the Minden Pro Hardware Store. He was sentenced to 14 days in jail on each count with two being served consecutively for a total of 28 days in jail.

Dale Ripley, 16, pleaded guilty to break-ins at two cottages on Mountain Lake, two on Beer Lake. Sentenced to 14 days on each count, the terms will be served concurrently for a total of 14 days on each count.

Brian Upton pleaded guilty to a break-in at the Minden Pro Hardware Store, theft of a bicycle and theft from two parked cars. He was sentenced to 14 days for the hardware store break-in and the bicycle theft and was given a suspended sentence on the theft from the autos.

Randal Sawyer, 18, pleaded guilty to a break-in at the Minden Pro Hardware store and the theft of a bicycle. He was sentenced to 14 days on each count.

County divided on county status

Reeve Doug Pritchard, however, the hold-up in passing the provisional change through county council was due mostly to the hesitation of Stanhope Reeve Jim Harrison, who, along with Walker, wrote to Queen's Park earlier this year seeking assurance that no education grants would be lost through the change. Pritchard told the group that Harrison had been "the biggest stumbling block" in the issue, an opinion which he asked Gambell to confirm.

Pergolas told Pritchard, however, that Harrison's doubts "had all been cleared up last week," and Gambell added that Harrison had "come around" after hearing Foster's presentation.

"There is no possible way county council will jeopardize a nickel for the county" in considering the move. He added that councillors "must have faith" in government advisors such as Foster, but Walker insisted that the county needs confirmation of education grants "on paper" before it votes in favour of the change. Gambell told Walker that, although he "couldn't explain Harrison's actions" in writing to Queen's Park, the reeves and deputy reeves had the responsibility of making decisions at county council, and keeping municipal colleagues informed of the issues discussed at the county level.

Gambell also told Walker that dissension from municipal reeves was "creating problems" for the county. "It does create problems at county council when we don't have cooperation from municipal councils," Gambell said.

Gambell also expressed confidence that, if the New Haliburton Act were ready to be put to a vote at county council, it would pass, but he admitted that the issue has been plagued with problems since it was first introduced.

"Ted Foster didn't tell us anything different from what (Dysart reeve) Murray Fearrey told us one year ago," Gambell said. "We've wasted 18 months over this issue screwing around," he added.

Pergolas persisted in his allegations that Walker's stand was inconsiderate of municipal council. "As far as I'm concerned," Pergolas told Walker, "there is no point in us even discussing issues at municipal council if our members will not support our resolutions at county council." Gambell conceded to the group that Walker's and Vick's actions "are still holding us back" from going ahead with the change. Walker responded by saying, "If there's something to be gained by it, I'll vote twice for it."

"Thankyou; we'll take both," Gambell replied.

OHRP grants available

The municipality of Lutterworth has been granted $40,000 under the provincial government's Home Renewal Program to administer loans to finance home improvements.

The grant marks the second year in a row that the municipality has received the full amount for which it is eligible under government guidelines.

Since the program began in Lutterworth five years ago, the municipality has provided roughly 30 loans to municipal residents for home improvement projects. Loans are offered at preferred rates, which vary according to the client's financial situation; some are as high as eight per cent, some as low as one per cent.

According to Lutterworth Clerk-Treasurer Wayne Hughes, only two of the thirty loans made by the municipality under the OHRP have suffered foreclosure. "We spent our full amount of $40,000 last year," Hughes told The Times in discussing the program several weeks ago, "and all those who have been involved in the program have been very pleased. The municipality probably receives about $1000 every month from interest on outstanding loans."

The county roads system has again become the subject of bitter debate at county council. During last week's session at Kilcoo Camp, councillors wrangled for nearly an hour over the fate of Highway 519, in an exchange that saw sharp criticism aimed at both the roads committee and a rather surprised county engineer Bill Obee.

Snowdon Reeve Bob Vick continued to press the road committee to return Highway 519 to the provincial highway system, but committee chairman Keith Tallman, who faced a barrage of questions during the committee's report on county roads, told Vick that the county has nothing to offer the province in exchange for 519, which was renamed County Road 1 when it was assumed from the province earlier this year.

Vick fired several heated questions at Tallman during the Wednesday county session, and before the nearly hour-long debate had finished, Dysart reeve Murray Fearrey also blasted Tallman and county roads engineer Bill Obee, saying the road committee had "not done its homework" on the issue of Highway 519.

County Road 1 was formerly a provincial highway until it was taken into the county system. In exchange, the Vankoughnet Road, then County Road 1, was given to the province and renumbered Highway 118. Vick has claimed for several months that the arrangement between the county and the province regarding the two roads was a temporary one, and that the county should now return Highway 519 to the province in order to increase subsidies to highway maintenance.

Reiterating statements made at council's May session, Vick told the meeting, "We can't afford to take over provincial highways, we should be trying to get the province to spend its own money on 519."

The roads committee, meanwhile, has been investigating various highways in the county to determine whether a new trade with the province might be possible, particularly a trade that would allow the county to return 519 to provincial control. After circulating a letter to municipal councils in the county earlier this year, requesting recommendations for changes to the county roads system, the roads committee determined that no trades with the province were possible.

"It has to be a trade-off to get 519 back," Tallman told an irate Bob Vick during the Kilcoo session, "but we have nothing to trade. That is the findings of the roads committee." Tallman also told Vick that, although both highways 507 and 648 south had been considered as possible trades, the Roads Committee had received "very little support" for either idea from municipal councils.

Dysart reeve Murray Fearrey, however, was skeptical of the committee's study methods in investigating possible changes. Although Fearrey was careful to say he was "not critical" of the committee, he pointed out to Tallman that "there are no recommendations from the committee," even though it was the group's mandate to make proposals for trading 519. "I think we really haven't done our homework here," Fearrey said in reference to the committee's investigation methods. "We've come back with no recommendations and we're being asked to vote on it."

Tallman responded to Fearrey by saying, "Our recommendation is that we have nothing to trade."

Fearrey also questioned Tallman and county engineer Bill Obee on their "rationalization" for the committee's findings.

When pressed by Fearrey, Obee conceded that the decisions of the roads committee were based on the response of townships as expressed in their letters to the county, a procedure that drew heated criticism from Fearrey. "Because some township agrees, disagrees or doesn't care, do you take that as a basis for a decision?" Fearrey asked Obee, adding bluntly that the committee's methods were "not good enough". "Surely as an engineer you can put some figures down that would allow any member of council here to decide what we should consider. You need some rationalization. I'm saying there are criteria, so let's look at them," he added.

Fearrey went on to suggest that traffic counts on roads under consideration by the committee would give credibility to any decisions made by the group. Fearrey also suggested that the original road's needs study, carried out by the county in 1968, should be considered.

Although Vick also told the group that the change of 519 to the county system has left Snowdon "without a provincial highway", Bill Obee explained to The Times Tuesday that Highways 503 and 121, both provincial highways, run through Snowdon township.

A section of Highway 519 that remains part of the provincial system, meanwhile, has recently been earmarked for nearly $1.5 million worth of reconstruction by the province. Once the repairs are completed, the section of 519 that remains under provincial jurisdiction - roughly three miles running south from Eagle Lake - will become part of County Road 1.

Although council had intended to pass a motion on Highway 519 at the Wednesday meeting, the issue was left unresolved at the end of the discussion. The roads committee has been requested to investigate possible solutions to the 519 tangle in coming weeks and Obee said Tuesday that the committee will make another presentation at the council's September meeting. Obee also suggested a July meeting is being considered by the county.

Lutterworth, MOE, at odds over zoning

Lutterworth council is not happy with the Ministry of Natural Resources. Although the council has won major concessions from the province on the issue of Hazard Land zoning, the ministry is now asking the municipality to return to the original hazard land configurations that were rejected by the province last year, and Lutterworth may face a big bill to do so.

Lutterworth council met with Warren Evershed, a representative from the Huntsville office of the MNR, to review mapping and zoning for its new draft zoning by-law in June of last year.

While the council had zoned a 66 foot portion of the Gull River banks as hazard land, Evershed flatly rejected the mapping and told council that all shoreline in the township would have to be zoned hazard land before the by-law would meet with approval from his ministry. Evershed also objected to clauses of relief in the by-law, stipulations that allowed landowners to improve lots on hazard land and thus upgrade the zoning.

According to Lutterworth clerk-treasurer Wayne Hughes, Evershed was inflexible at the June 9 meeting. "Council spent two hours trying to compromise with Mr. Evershed, but no middle ground was reached: he told us flatly 'Eliminate the clauses for relief and change the mapping!'"

Hughes adds that Evershed's approach to negotiations was a source of irritation for many municipal councils in the area who had similar trouble accommodating hazard land zoning in the by-law. Evershed has since been reassigned by the ministry.

As a result of being at loggerheads with Evershed, Lutterworth council decided to remove all hazard land zoning from the by-law and let the issue be resolved by the Ontario Municipal Board. As Lutterworth council expected, the MNR filed an official objection to the draft by-law when it was circulated by the municipality, and subsequently arranged a meeting with Lutterworth council to discuss the issue.

After further discussions with the ministry this March, government officials agreed to reconsider both the mapping and the relief clauses, and a recent letter from the MNR, although it cites possible legal problems with Lutterworth's relief clauses, says the ministry will agree to the approach providing it is approved by the OMB. The letter also says that provisions for zoning improvement are "unlikely to jeopardize the implementation of the government's flood plain objectives."

Now that the smoke has cleared, Lutterworth's by-law is exactly where it was in the spring of 1980 and the municipality now faces the cost of printing and circulating a by-law supplement to reinstate the original mapping and zoning.

Says Hughes of the long negotiations over hazard land "Council accepts the inevitability of addressing hazard land and councillors here are glad they've won their point with the province, but we are not happy about the situation we're left with." Hughes adds that the municipality will undoubtedly be approaching the province to absorb at least some of the costs of producing the supplement: "I know I'll be instructed to approach the MNR and the Ministry of Housing about the costs. The supplement is not covered in the original 75 per cent funding that we received from the province."

Although Hughes agrees that the principle behind hazard land zoning is sound, he feels more important considerations have been overlooked: "The province is trying to protect life and property, which only makes sense, but the financial ruin of having one's lot re-zoned 'hazard' is as great as the hardship of being flooded once every 100 years."

Hughes expects Lutterworth's zoning by-law to be heard by the Ontario Municipal Board this fall.

For the second year in a row, Ken Cox has been awarded the MTC truck rodeo trophy for driving efficiency. The event took place recently in Huntsville.

Quality representation

It is often difficult, and sometimes hazardous, to select one member of a municipal council for praise. The difficulty arises in determining the full extent of one individual's responsibility for the success of certain programs. The council, after all, usually acts as a unit, endorsing changes or new ideas by a consensus. Much of the councillors' work takes place outside the regular public meetings, so it is sometimes difficult to determine to what degree one individual is responsible for the council's successes.

However, in a year and a half of observing the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council in action, one councillor in particular has emerged as a positive, forward-thinking representative of the electorate.

Councillor Ed. Pergolas became a member of the municipal council by the skin of his teeth. Following a recount in November 1980, Pergolas was named the winner of the final seat on the council, beating out Larry Cummins by four votes. (Cummins was later appointed to the council following the resignation of councillor-elect Dean Elliott.)

Since he has taken his seat at the council table, Ed. Pergolas has been an active participant in the affairs of the municipality. He has been anything but reluctant in speaking his mind on issues confronting the council. Pergolas rarely comes to a council meeting unprepared, spending a great deal of time researching the matters which concern area voters.

He obviously cares about the future of the community and is often the one to present new ideas that challenge the way things have been done for years. Tradition has not deterred him from searching out new and more efficient ways to get things done.

For example, Pergolas has tackled the tangled web of Minden's water and sewer system, attempting to make order out of the financial working of the utilities. He still has a way to go, but his persistence and digging has helped clear up many of the mysteries surrounding the systems.

He has pushed for the formation of a non-profit housing authority, which is slowly reaching fruition; given municipal finances and by-laws close scrutiny; presented creative solutions to complex problems facing the townships.

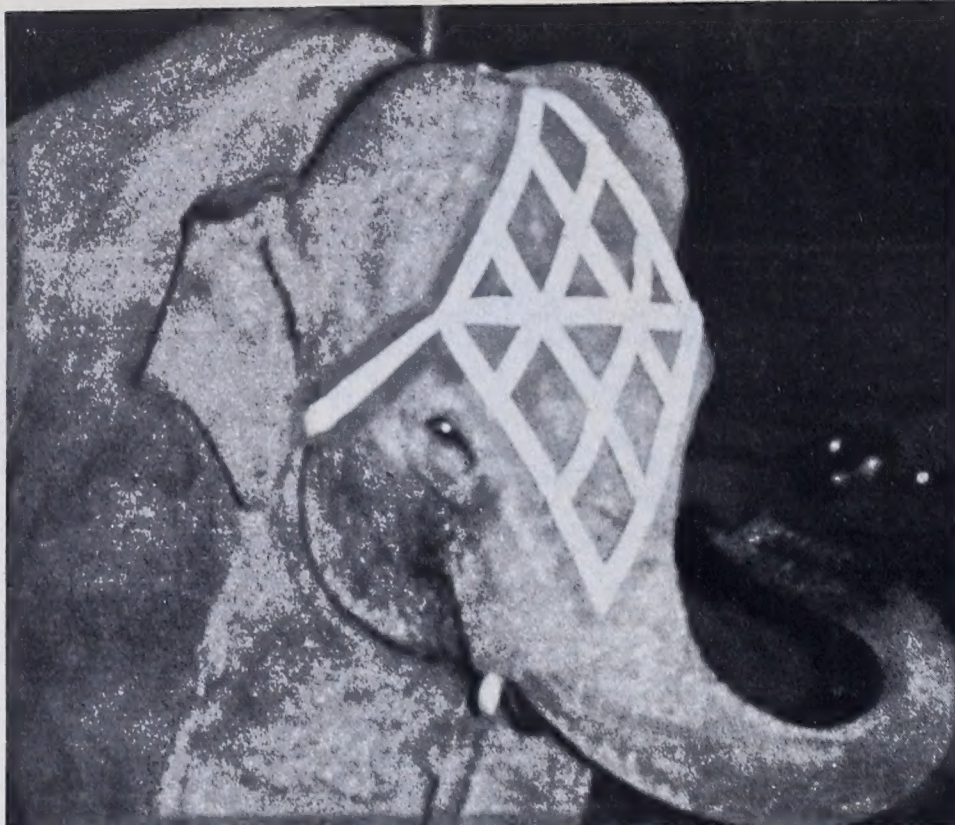

We don't necessarily agree with all the suggestions the councillor has presented, but we do admire his courage and forthrightness in seeking out and presenting ideas that envision a better future in this municipality.

Ed. Pergolas has provided the ratepayers of Anson, Hindon and Minden with quality representation. We believe he deserves recognition for his efforts.

Closing Madawaska Mines will cost province

- by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

According to a union spokesman, the Provincial Government would actually save money if it gave part of a uranium contract to Madawaska Mines Ltd. instead of allowing the mine in Bancroft to close, losing hundreds of jobs. He claimed that by the time the province has paid welfare and other benefits to men who become unemployed when the mine closes, it will be more expensive than paying a little more for uranium from the Ontario company. Recently, Ontario Hydro decided to make new uranium purchases from Northern Saskatchewan instead of from the Bancroft mine, because the Madawaska contract would have cost about $50 million more than the Saskatchewan deal...or so stated a Hydro spokesman. Speaking in the Legislature, I pointed out that the difference in cost between the Madawaska and the Saskatchewan deal is $10.2 million, and the cost of closing the mine could easily amount to $5 million in the first year.

OHIP - extra billing

According to the Minister of Health, within a few months any physician who charges more than the OHIP fee schedule without notifying his patient in advance will be liable to a charge of professional misconduct. The College of Physicians and Surgeons has been informed that a change in the regulations of the Health Disciplines Act can be expected, and will take effect no later than 60 days after it's submitted to the college. This change will, in effect, give legal force to a 1979 agreement between the Ontario Medical Association and the Ministry, which has often been cited as a means of solving the problems of extra billing.

Capturing the spirit of the Highlands

Two Minden painters are preserving a tradition of Highlands landscape painting with a show at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden.

The paintings of Andre Lapine, which form the permanent collection at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden, can't help but touch any viewer who has made a life in the Highlands; Lapine's paintings of the early settlers at work show how many ancient images still haunt the spirit of the Highlands today. Like all painters, Lapine fuses past with present through interpretation, and in doing so captures moments that survive time. And while Lapine's work is perhaps more moving because the artist's hands are now still, two very capable painters are at work in Minden, carrying on the process of capturing the spirit of a region on canvas. They are Dr. Agnes Jamieson, the Minden doctor for whom the Minden gallery is named, and long-time Minden resident, Walter Noice, and their work is now showing at the Minden gallery.

It is fitting that Jamieson herself was responsible for saving the badly neglected works of Lapine and ensuring their survival as the gallery's permanent collection; her own work, which she has practised for some 20 years, is highly evocative of the Highlands landscapes. Noice's work too, shares the historical authority of the Lapine pieces; many of his canvasses capture the mood of scenes and structures that have been transformed over the years. The Minden schoolhouse and the Gull River grist mill are two examples of scenes that formed strong images during Noice's childhood in Minden. Now the grist mill has given way to a hydro dam and the schoolhouse is an annexe to a much bigger, more modern complex.

Although the 36 pieces of Jamieson's are mostly landscape, her still life work reveals a strong interest in experimentation with themes and forms. From the highly symbolic "Still Life" to the more traditional imagery of "A Batchelor's Kitchen Table", Jamieson's still life paintings show a strong pursuit of theme that is less obvious in her landscapes. During a quiet afternoon at the Gallery, Dr. Jamieson's eyes sparkle as she studies one of her own works, "Inquietude", a vivid cubistic piece that depicts a man's contorted face looking through a tunnel: "I did it because I don't like cubist art," she explains with obvious enthusiasm for her craft. "I thought if I tried it, I'd find out why; it's an experiment, really." The bright orange face on the canvas betrays a touch of mirth at the corners of a hesitant smile, and Dr. Jamieson explains, "He may look as if he's trying to bluff the world, but I think he's scared stiff."

Jamieson landscapes are accessible on a more strictly emotional level, a trait she readily concedes of the 26 pieces in the Gallery's Common Room. "I can usually remember the emotion that accompanies a scene," Jamieson explains, her musing coming slowly around to suggest a theory of her art. "The warmth of the sun, the intensity of the wind; this is what I try to put into my paintings, the feelings I have on the scene while I'm there, observing." However the emotions can often overwhelm and Jamieson feels that judgement and discipline are as important to a successful canvas as a sensitive eye: "You have to limit yourself to what you're trying to paint. Often I would take on too much and get nowhere; you have to limit what you see and what you use - you have to choose."

The lively, 74 year old doctor began painting as a hobby while practising medicine in Orillia in 1962.

1963, is a departure from the predominant realism of her landscapes to an almost impressionistic style. Although she feels her strong point is colour, draughtsmanship is a continual challenge in her work: "I still feel that I can't draw," she confides. "I have problems with it. When it comes to achieving colour, I think I'm fairly adept, but drawing gives me trouble - it's the greatest challenge." Jamieson takes trees, which are naturally central to many of her landscapes, as a good example. "I love trees, but I have trouble with them. Now Walter Noice is a master of trees; if you look at his elms you'll see; they are truly beautiful."

It is a strong compliment from someone of Jamieson's experience and one that is borne out by a viewing of Noice's painting of the Minden Clergy House; although the elms, as Jamieson explains, are no longer standing, Noice's oil on canvas clearly captures their majesty. Like Jamieson's work, the 16 Noice pieces are a strong statement on the feelings of the Haliburton landscape, and in places Noice goes even further, to infuse his natural forms with a suggestion of the symbolic. Trees are indeed a strong image in his work and they are used in a variety of moods, from the stark outline of a sun-bleached California

Cypress, to the solitary, dead, silhouette of a pine during sunset.

Again, like Jamieson's, Noice's name is well-known in Minden and throughout the county. Noice was born in Minden in 1895 and after extensive travel and service in both wars, he made his life in Minden and his hobby in painting for most of his 87 years.

Walter's career as a painter began from a hospital bed in Ontario, where he was recovering from wounds received in action at Vimy Ridge during the first World War. The young Noice took his first instruction in art while in hospital and he began painting scenes from the Highlands on his eventual return to Minden in 1944.

Noice's career exploits are dizzying in their variety. Aside from a time as a medical supplies salesman prior to the war, Noice served two terms as reeve of Dysart and was a founding partner in a publishing enterprise that is now the Haliburton County Echo. He and Jack Jackson ran a bakery for a time and Noice also briefly owned the Highlander Hotel in Haliburton before his venture in publishing. The long awaited summer season is underway. As if by signal on this first summer weekend the inclement weather cleared over the Highlands, and hopefully the beautiful conditions which are with us at present will bless our many visitors for at least the next two months.

There are many activities planned to entertain our summer visitors and we encourage your participation in as many of them as possible. Already underway and continuing through to August 2 is a display of arts and crafts at the Rails End Gallery in Haliburton of particular distinction. The work is that of the various experts who teach at the Haliburton School of Fine arts during the summer. Some of their fine work is also offered for sale at this exhibit.

The Guild of Fine Arts Exhibition and Sale opens on July 2 and runs to July 17 at the Senior Elementary School in Haliburton. This is the 20th consecutive year that this event has been run and it has attained wide recognition for a top quality show. It features fine works of both local and national artisans. Don't miss it.

The Country Good Times weekend on July 17 and 18 in Wilberforce is another event that has generated a great deal of enthusiasm. They have a knack in Wilberforce of making all of their events into good down-to-earth fun. A baseball tournament, beauty contest, midway, beer garden, dance and a huge parade are some of the features. The eighth annual amateur talent contest also runs through Saturday and Sunday and contestants for this should register in advance by contacting Donna Herbert of the Monmouth Recreation Committee. You may call either 448-2991 or 488-2981.

The Minden White Water Park has action taking place almost every weekend with canoe and kayak enthusiasts testing their skills down the rapids. On July 24 and 25 the First Open Canoe Slalom Championships will be held there with plenty of excitement assured for all.

The month will wind up with the annual Gooderham Old Time Horseshoe Days weekend at the new Community Centre and Park at Gooderham. A carnival of events has been planned around a three day horseshoe pitching tournament which draws participants from near and far.

The Chamber lists annual events throughout the year in their "Haliburton Highlands 1982 Directory" which is available free of charge throughout the County. If the merchants near you don't have a copy ask them to contact the Chamber at 286-1760 for a supply.

Restaurant and Tavern at Minden is under the new ownership of Helen and Gunter Tragart and is now open daily from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. They are also featuring a delicious Smorgasbord on Sundays from 4 to 11 p.m. We welcome Helen and Gunter to the community and hope you will drop in and get to know them.

In Haliburton the "Harvest Room" is about to open on the site of the former "Hayloft Tavern". It is now being operated by George and Elaine Schmid who have gained a great reputation for good food at the Beaconbrook Motel which they also operate. This new facility will feature gourmet dining in a quaint atmosphere along with a comfortable lounge for before or after dinner cocktails. We wish them much success in their new venture and look forward to viewing the newly decorated facilities.

The Sprucewood Restaurant in Wilberforce has reopened under the new management of Marlene Detlor and was immediately a big success with travellers in that area. It's located on Highway 648 just west of the village and features excellent meals or snacks along with a very friendly atmosphere. Drop in and say "hi" to the new owner.

Jerry McKelvey has opened a new bait and tackle outlet in the Walker's Texaco garage on the by-pass, (just north of the Chamber) at Minden. It's called Big Jer's and will certainly be a welcome convenience for the many fishermen in the area. We suggest he may even be able to provide you with better advice on the hot spots for fishing than we can at the Chamber.

Highland Gate Estates Ltd., has joined the Chamber and we welcome Roy Windover as a new member. This company has available some very attractive building sites within easy walking distance of Minden and with access to, and a lovely view of the Gull River. They can be contacted at 286-2311 for more information.

There is a little corner of Haliburton County on Highway 60 just before it enters Algonquin Park where we have some very nice resort facilities. Among these is Parkway, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Vallance and they have campsites, self catering cottages, laundromat and a store and gas bar on Oxtongue Lake. Their store has a beautiful range of Canadian gifts, many of which are hand made and should certainly be visited if you are taking a drive through the park. We welcome Parkway as new members.

ion of caption and many errors in the article be printed, and strongly urge that the reporter do his homework before writing any articles, as it is a great waste to all concerned in time and money, when an article has to be printed twice.

The trust of the community in proper reporter coverage is the greatest boon or asset to any newspaper. Print facts, not fiction.

Mrs. Patricia Mintz,

Editor:

With respect to your article about the Minden Fitness and Self Defense Club:

I was deeply disappointed with the coverage. There was little mention of the local club's hard work which goes into preparing (all year) for such a demonstration. The children are learning self-discipline, respect, building self-confidence, and how to work with each other inside a club atmosphere.

As a parent I am interested in a club which gives such good training.

So give credit where credit is due to the children and to their capable teacher, Gary.

Wally Bunn, Minden

Editor:

We are members of the MINDEN FITNESS and SELF DEFENSE. We would like to add to the article written about our club. We feel that perhaps many, having read your paper last week may have the wrong idea about what we are taught every Thursday in St. Paul's Parish Hall.

Although our teacher, Sifu Gary Stephenson teaches us the skills and techniques of Sholin Kung Fu we are not training to be the aggressive, physical thugs of tomorrow! We have strict rules of honour which we are encouraged to follow. We would like to list a few things which are even now being printed on our individual membership cards.

A martial artist must not arbitrarily engage in a fight or use his skills to intimidate others.

Must not engage in needless arguments, defame or belittle others.

Must always be humble and modest and practice humility.

So, sir, if after your article, someone asks my mother, "And you let your children attend those classes!" We answer, "Yes Ma'am! And we're very proud members!"

Members of Minden
Fitness and Self Defense

Editor:

I wish to commend the reporter who wrote the article "Hai Karate..." It was a very witty piece and greatly amused the members of the Wong's School of Karate in Orillia of which I too am a member. He was observant in noting the difference between the two styles, which was the object of the demonstration. But at the same time several errors were printed.

Unfortunately, the parents and students of our local club - MINDEN FITNESS and SELF-DEFENSE (which was misnamed in the article) were deeply offended and disappointed. The skills and abilities of our local children were played down to sensationalize the "aggression" of the Karate students.

We, too, spar, as Kendal demonstrated against two opponents and in a style that was praiseworthy. Don broke two one inch boards successfully - a difficult break for many. Yet neither of these accomplishments gained recognition.

Our program did not need the involvement of the Karate School to "spice up" the action. We can hold our own and have many very promising practitioners. We are not amateurs playing at self-defense. We are practicing the oldest of the martial arts and following the traditional teaching of defense with honour.

The programme was designed to take a visual teaching aid to the students, parents and other interested observers. The average person knows very little of the martial arts. The mention of it conjures up images of violence and "Bruce Lee" movies. There are many styles of self-defense, Judo, Karate, Ju-Jitsu, Kung-Fu - the list is long and all have value and are effective. But a mighty fist and powerful kick does not a master make in any style. The mind must be molded as carefully as the body to become one. And a devoted practitioner will grow in wisdom 'till the day he dies..

By sensationalizing our guests, you minimized the hard work and effort that the members of our club have strived to attain during the past year. We have a good club - which is gaining a "family" closeness, a strong sense of honour and respect, and a confidence of which any community should be proud.

& Self-Defense Club.

Artists capture Highlands

he worked as an inspector for 17 years.

Noice's paintings are as varied as his life has been. The eerie symbolism of an evening sunset gives way to meticulous precision in a farm landscape and a winter creek scene. While his work is generally more detailed than that of Jamieson, his landscapes show the same careful concern for the feeling of a scene, and his composition is often as telling as Jamieson's manipulation of colour.

Despite their differences in style, the important similarity between Jamieson and Noice is their achievement as amateurs. While neither painter took more than a handful of lessons, their works show a remarkable technical ability and a deep visual sensitivity for two for whom painting has been no more than a hobby. But Jamieson is modest, and in declaiming artistic status she concedes only that she likes what she does. "I never say I am an artist, I just say I paint, and I paint because I like to."

To be painting prolifically well into one's eighties is remarkable in itself, but to remark with the obvious success Jamieson and Noice enjoy is a mark of individual excellence that lends to a community a vital interpretive eye. Their works can be seen at the gallery until July 6.

Tent circus brings back old time memories

The big top came to Minden Friday and delighted both the younger set and those who remembered traditional travelling tent circuses.

The Martin and Downs circus presented two performances Friday under canvas at the Minden fair grounds.

Compared to some of the bigger names in the circus world, the Martin and Downs aggregation is a junior member. However, the thrills, chills, laughs and fun they brought to those in attendance proved to be exceptional entertainment value.

Daring aerialists dazzled the crowd from high over the two rings, swinging back and forth with the greatest of ease. While down at ground level, jugglers, acrobats, trained animals and the traditional circus clown kept the audience amused.

One of the most popular events of the evening proved to be the elephants. A pair of large pachyderms pranced around the ring performing traditional tricks. The finale that held everyone spellbound came when the trainer allowed one of the giant beasts to lie down on top of him. Of course, the man emerged unscathed much to the delight and wonder of the crowd.

Most of those in attendance agreed that the show was an exceptional one, certainly better than the edition which visited the community three years ago. While the commercialism, from "the official Martin and Downs souvenir colouring book, only one dollar" etc. was a bit heavy, the excitement and glow of an old time circus still radiated from under the big top.

The photos on this page capture some of the excitement of the evening.

by Ron Reid - Federation of Ontario Naturalists

The death of a bird is seldom pleasant - the talons of a hawk or the slow agony of starvation are natural forces that control the population of all birds. But some deaths seem especially cruel, particularly when the hand of man is involved. Such is the case for waterfowl caught in the steel traps intended for muskrat or beaver.

This problem was brought to my attention by a pair of Federation of Ontario Naturalists members, who had been canoeing in Wye Marsh near Midland in late April. They had come across two ducks in traps that afternoon, one already dead, and another with leg injuries but still alive. Releasing the live wood duck was an easy task, but answering their questions about how often this problem occurs was more difficult.

Eventually, I discovered that at least some biologists in the Ministry of Natural Resources share our concern. Back in 1973, the Ministry asked almost seven hundred Ontario trappers how many ducks each caught accidentally. Almost 75% reported no captures, but the remainder provided statistics that add up to an estimated 6300 ducks captured across the province. About half of these were still alive, and released by the trappers.

Late in the trapping season, when ducks have arrived back from their wintering grounds by the thousands, some captures are difficult to avoid. Muskrat traps are usually set on floating logs or open banks, which are favourite loafing spots for many ducks. However, with an increasing move by trappers to more humane traps, or through a deliberate effort to place brush above the traps to discourage ducks, the accidental capture of waterfowl may be reduced in future.

It is important to keep this kind of mortality in perspective. Compare the 3000 ducks killed in traps each year, for example, with the over 900,000 harvested by hunters. From a game manager's point of view, trapping deaths are insignificant. But to the naturalist who finds a wood duck or a teal struggling in the jaws of a leghold trap, such statistics are small consolation.

Interim report favours Peterborough location for Kanawa museum

Haliburton County's effort to retain the Kanawa International Museum and see the unique collection become a major tourist attraction in the Highlands suffered a setback last week.

An interim report of the consultants looking into the future of the museum has ranked a site at Trent University in Peterborough as the most desirable of a number of locations under consideration. The report, which has not been made public, but which was discussed at an open meeting of the Trent University Presidential Advisory Committee on the Kanawa Canoe Museum, noted that the connection with a school of higher learning was needed to help give the museum world class status. It was suggested that Peterborough, being a prime tourist area and having easy access to lakes and rivers, made it an ideal location for the museum.

While the report, prepared by MacLennan Associated Architects of Kingston, was viewed as a less than encouraging sign by the Haliburton County committee, a spokesman said the group was not yet prepared to concede that the museum is lost. Stu Brandon, a vice chairman of the Haliburton County Citizens for the Kanawa Canoe Museum noted Monday that the report is an interim one. "The endorsement of the Trent University location is a strong point in their favour," Brandon commented. "But we have been told that a final decision has yet to be made. The committee understands that the consultants are still willing to consider the other locations being considered."

The Haliburton County Committee, which includes Mr. Brandon, Jack MacGregor of Camp Kandalore, Jack Brezina of Minden and County Warden Ron Gambell, was formed earlier this year in an effort to have the collection remain in the county.

Brandon said the committee has received support from a large number of individuals and organizations from within and outside the county. "We have forwarded close to 40 letters to the consultants indicating the support we have gathered so far," he commented. "The committee is also in the final stages of preparing a submission in support of our position. The consultants have told us they still want to receive our submission, so I think the county is still in the running."

Brandon noted that the provincial ministries appear to be working at cross purposes. "For years they have been telling us to develop our tourism resources and potential. The Kanawa Canoe Museum presents us with that chance — a major attraction that could be a drawing card for the entire area. However, the interim report states that Peterborough, which already has a large number of prime attractions, is being selected for another, one that we will lose. The canoe museum, properly developed, would have a much greater impact on the economy of the Highlands than it will if it is moved to Peterborough. It's a shame they want to take away something from us rather than see it develop and grow here," he commented.

A number of other communities in the province are vying for the museum, including Toronto, Port Hope, Ottawa and Bracebridge.

The fact that the museum could be relocated outside the county came to light earlier this year when the man who brought the collection together spoke to a number of local service clubs. Kirk Wipper told the organizations that he felt the collection should stay in the county and urged the groups to help ensure it does remain here.

The collection includes canoes from throughout the world and is considered the most extensive in one location. Indications from both provincial and federal authorities are that the collection would be developed into a world class museum.

"We haven't given up hope yet that we can convince 'the powers that be' that Haliburton County is the location for the museum," Brandon stated. "We still believe that this is where the collection should remain."

Whether that optimism is borne out should be known by the end of the summer or early fall when the final report of the consultants looking into the future of the museum is made public.

Lutterworth taxes up 11.7%

Taxes in the municipality of Lutterworth will increase 11.7 per cent in 1982, according to the municipal budget passed by Lutterworth council June 17. Taxpayers in the municipality will be providing $149,817.71 towards the cost of expenditures projected to be $323,825 in 1982.

As with most municipalities in the county, a considerable percentage of the increases in school and county levies has accounted for the rise in taxes. This year Lutterworth will pay out $53,780.30 for its share of the county budget, an increase of $3,882 over last year's contribution. School Board costs, meanwhile, have been increased $27,539 to $284,395 for 1982.

The municipality will also face increased costs for Environmental Services in 1982. Of the $15,900 slated to be spent on the three dump sites in Lutterworth, $3,700 will go towards the cost of a study to open the new Davis Lake site, which will replace a dump in the same area that is quickly reaching capacity. An additional $1,100 will be needed for road work to open up the new site. The MOE will also require $1,950 for carrying out operations to close the old Davis Lake site.

The following is a list of spending as forecast by the Lutterworth municipal council for 1982. Figures at left indicate actual spending in 1981, while figures at right indicate budgeted expenditures for 1982:

New system

According to Lutterworth Clerk-Treasurer Wayne Hughes, this year's budget preparation was considerably simpler than past years thanks to computerized auditing system the municipality has recently adopted. Operated by Lutterworth's accountants Dawson and Gray, the system will eventually make it possible for the municipality to have a monthly balance sheet of all municipal accounts, instead of waiting for the results of a yearly audit.

Hughes says it has taken three years for all municipal accounts to be transferred to the new computer system. The monthly balance sheet, he adds, allows any discrepancies in municipal accounts to be caught early, rather than going undetected until the year end audit.

Hughes estimates that the municipality has saved thousands in accounting costs already; the new system has reduced the time needed for an audit from three weeks to two days, which has resulted in the considerable savings for the municipality. Monthly ledgers also allowed Hughes to compare the year's projected spending for the year with amounts spent up to June of this year, when the new budget was released. As a result, Lutterworth councillors can now compare the year's estimates to actual spending for the first few months of the year.

HHSS honours graduating classes

Saturday night was an important one for many students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. The evening's graduation ceremonies marked the end of formal education for some and an important stepping stone towards higher education for others. For the 133 grade 12 and 13 students who received secondary school graduation diplomas that night, it was a moment not to be forgotten.

The gymnasium of Haliburton High was nearly full by the time the official proceedings began at 8 Saturday evening. Parents, well-wishers and friends of the graduates filled several rows in front of the stage and sat in bleachers at the back of the room to watch students (in academic gowns) receive diplomas from representatives of the Haliburton Board of Education. Director Doug Hodgson and Chairman Cheryl Murdoch passed out diplomas to 110 grade 12 students and 23 grade 13's. Teachers Bill Valentine and Al Oakley described students' future plans, which for many includes college in Peterborough and Toronto.

Valedictorians for 1982 were Doug Cross for the grade 13 class and Tammy Burroughs for the grade 12's, both were well received and widely appreciated for their speeches to their respective classes. This year Haliburton High produced four Ontario Scholars, Michael Anderson, Elizabeth Cooper, Douglas Cross and Ernest Mosgrove, who took their place on the podium to receive recognition for their achievement.

The commencement ceremony wound up with a reception for parents and students in the cafeteria. It was an occasion for students and teachers to reflect on the many experiences that made up their years together at Haliburton High. And while many grade 12's will return to complete grade 13 next year, others have already found work in the Haliburton area. For the many whose future plans were described as "undecided", only adventure can lie ahead.

The following is a list of grade 12 and 13 graduates from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School in 1982.

While teens in the Minden area have been enjoying a series of dances at the Minden Community Centre during the past year, they have also been raising money. The group decided to use the excess funds to help purchase some decorative lighting for the arena. Members of the organization recently presented Recreation committee member and councillor Ed Pergolas with a cheque for $200 to cover the cost of the new equipment. Presenting the cheque were, from the left, the 1982-83 president Joel Gentle, Chrissy Anderson, Brent Murdoch and Scott Young, the members of the retiring executive and Michelle Maher and Jennifer Gentle, members of the 1982-83 executive.

Dance-a-thon to raise funds

The Minden Figure Skating Club would like to help pay for a new sound system at the Minden Arena and they've come up with a very appropriate way to get one; an old-fashioned dance-a-thon.

The dancing will start Saturday, July 10 at the Minden arena, and once it's over, be it that day or the following week, the proceeds will go towards a new system for the arena.

The rules for what could be the first ever Minden dance-a-thon couldn't be simpler:

"Dance 'til ya drop." The music will start at 10:00 a.m. and contestants will dance through the day to every kind of music organizers can find. "We'll have modern, big band, waltzes, just about everything," organizer Nadine Campbell says of the music line-up for the event. Contestants are welcome to bring their own favourites along, especially any familiar strains that will help keep them on their feet longer. Says Mrs. Campbell, "If you can find it, we'll play it." She's confident that dancers will go long enough to leave time for every request.

Contestants in the dance-a-thon will collect pledges, as in any other "thon" - skating, swimming, walking, etc. - and prizes will go to those who bring in the most. Prizes have been donated to the cause by almost every business in Minden. Pledges can be made by the hour or by a single total for the event.

Mrs. Campbell issues a challenge to confident rug cutters of all ages in Minden to come out and show their stuff in the Saturday event. There is no age limit, and organizers say the club will provide refreshments to everyone on the dance floor.

If you can't eat while you dance, you can take advantage of the 5-minute breaks every hour to take in some sustenance.

Pledge sheets for the first ever Minden Dance-a-thon are available wherever the Dance-a-thon posters are displayed, including Hall's Insurance and the Chamber of Commerce. Pledge sheets have gone out to all the lodges and camps in the area, so some youthful energy is expected to compete with the obvious favourites in the event, the Minden figure skaters themselves.

For all the Fred Astaires and Ginger Rogers out there, call Nadine Campbell at 286-2962 for information and get out your dancing shoes. Admission at the door is $1.00.

Museum committee wants public input

The first meeting of the Minden Museum Committee was held last week to formulate plans for a museum. Aileen Blears was appointed chairperson, and Jennie Hagan secretary of the group. Other members are Laura Kirkwood, Wendy Wilkins and Howard Clyde.

To be housed in the old library building, now situated behind the Cultural Centre, the museum will endeavour to educate, and, at the same time, entertain. It is the plan of the committee to make the museum so worthwhile that a visit to it will stimulate the public to seek further knowledge of the Minden area.

The committee would greatly appreciate input from the public regarding what type of museum would be most feasible in the small space available. If you have any ideas, or if you would like to volunteer your services, please contact one of the members.

In order to get started, money must be raised. To this end, there will be a bake sale, etc. in front of the Sandalwood Gift Shop on Wednesday, July 28 at 10 a.m.

At our June meeting, final details were arranged for our second annual auction sale and flea market.

This will be held on Saturday, July 17, at the Lochlin Community Hall Park, between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. The auction will commence at noon. There will be a luncheon available in the school building.

Rental space is available for any person or group wishing to bring their own items (crafts, baking, antiques, etc., etc.) to sell on their own.

As is our custom, the proceeds from this day will be used to help defray costs on our Ski Trail maintenance, and to give assistance to local non-profit organizations.

Donations of your unwanted treasures are urgently needed for our auction. Arrangements to have donations for the auction picked up, or, to rent selling space, can be made by contacting John Francis at 286-2373, Jean Farrell at 286-2843, or Burt Smith at 286-1879.

We are hopeful that this auction sale - flea market day will be as successful as it was last year.

Grade 8 students enjoy Niagara visit

- Submitted -

On Wednesday, May 26 the grade eight students of Archie Stouffer left for a three day trip to Niagara Falls. It was a fun as well as educational trip, but also exhausting.

The students visited Queenston Heights, the grave of Laura Secord, Niagara-on-the-Lake as well as Niagara Falls, Ontario and Niagara Falls, New York. A comparative study was done of Fort George, the British Fort during the War of 1812 and Fort Niagara, the American Fort.

The students were given a science lesson on the anatomy of a dolphin at the Niagara Falls Aquarium. It was also a fun lesson as three dolphins were put through their routines. Daryl Ward fell in love with Sassy the Sea Lion, but we had to leave Sassy behind as she wouldn't pass through Customs, uneventfully, into Canada.

Another educational experience for the students was a walking tour of Kensington Market. For most students it was an eye-opener, seeing different cultures represented in a small area. The smells and live animals were quite an experience that many of the students had never before been exposed to. Many parents don't know how close they came to being the owners of baby chicks.

Overall the three days were filled with many new experiences. Some students have never stayed at a motel before, or bowled 10 pin or even were allowed to manage their own money for meals. For quite a number it was a new experience and a thrill to cross over a bridge and end up in a 'foreign' country.

The trip, as well as being solely educational, is an experience in comradeship and developing caring relationships. The students showed they had learned this lesson well on the first night in Niagara.

One student lost a new camera. He was extremely upset and the rest were upset for him. All 40 students conducted a search of the three storey building we were in but to no avail. Rather than see the student upset, the students came up with a plan. They would all chip in a dollar and surprise this one student with a new camera. This incident certainly restored all hope in young teenagers of today.

Due to the price of busing, this may be our last trip to Niagara. Over the last seven years it has been a wonderful way to end the elementary school career of the students. Each year, each group has been constantly commended on their behaviour no matter where they went, making them excellent representatives of Minden. It is always so nice to have the students hear compliments such as "This is the best group we have ever had visit."

Three days in Niagara is a great memory to carry on to high school. We hope we may continue those three days a little longer.

Summer traffic brings increased accidents

The summer season has arrived in the Haliburton Highlands. This fact is attested to by the lengthy accident report prepared by the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police. A total of eight accidents were contained in this week's release from the police, all involving damages of more than $1000.

Heavy rain was falling Monday afternoon (June 21) when three vehicles were involved in an accident at the intersection of Highway 35 and Newcastle Street, Minden.

A 1971 Dodge, driven by Siiri Mielonen, 76, of Minden attempted to cross Highway 35 when it was struck by a car driven by Clarence Fidler, 63, of Hanover. A third car, waiting at the intersection and driven by Larry Anderson, 23 of Lutterworth Township, was struck by the Mielonen car when it spun around following the impact.

Damages included: to the Mielonen vehicle, $1200; to the Fidler car, $900; and to the Anderson pick-up, $1600.

Mielonen has been charged with failing to yield the right of way.

The investigating officer was Constable Mike Legge.

Lutterworth Road One

Some $4500 damage was done to a car driven by Richard Cleverdon, 28, of Markham when it skidded off Lutterworth Road One on a curve and ended up in the ditch June 23. The driver was charged with failing to report an accident. The investigation officer was Constable Brian Dunham.

Horseshoe Lake Road

A car that failed to negotiate a right hand turn at an intersection on Horseshoe Lake Road sustained $2500 damage after it rolled into a nearby pond. The driver, James Cameron, 24, of Oshawa, was charged with making an unsafe turn. Constable Jim Martin investigated the crash. The accident happened June 24.

Highway 121

A single car accident June 25 on Highway 121 near Tory Hill resulted in $5000 damage to a car driven by Rudi Schulz, 62, of Scarborough. Schulz lost control of his vehicle and struck a rock cut. The man has been charged with impaired driving. Investigating the accident is Constable Mike Smith.

South Lake Road

A 1975 model van slammed into a rock cut June 26 on the South Lake Road causing $2200 damage to the vehicle. Driver Timothy Eastman, 18, of Minden, has been charged with careless driving. Constable Mike Smith was the investigating officer.

North Shore Road

A utility pole on the North Shore Road took the brunt of the impact June 27 as a car driven by Christopher Barry, 19, of Guilford Township left the road and slammed into it. Damage was estimated at $3000 to the 1981 model Datsun and $600 to the pole. Barry has been charged with careless driving. The investigating officer is Constable Mike Smith.

Elephant Lake Road

An accident in Harcourt Township resulted in a broken nose for the driver, Ian Blower. The mishap occurred June 27. The man has been charged with careless driving. The investigating officer is Constable Jim Solway.

County Road 18

A charge of failing to yield the right of way from a private driveway has been laid against Carol Kellett, 54, of Minden, following an accident June 25 in Minden Township. According to police, Andrew Pristol, 18, of Minden township was driving his 1977 Volkswagen on County Road 18 when it collided with the side of a station wagon driven by Kellett. Damage to the Pristol vehicle was estimated at $4000 while the Kellett car sustained $1000 damage. The accident was investigated by Constable Dave Rogers.

Challenge accepted

The "boys in blue" have accepted a challenge issued last week in The Times, by the Minden Dixie Lee Seniors.

A team from the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police have agreed to meet the Seniors in an exhibition game at the Minden diamond.

The two teams have agreed to a Thursday evening match-up with the teams taking to the field at 7:30 p.m. The game has been set for next Thursday evening, July 8.

Funds raised through the exhibition game will be shared equally between the team with the Seniors portion being used for team support while the OPP will turn over the collection to the charity of their choice.

Curlers try their luck on the links

Some 56 members of the Minden Curling Club, with their brooms set aside for the season, tried their luck on the links Thursday. They competed in the club's annual golf tournament held at the Beaverbrook Golf Course in Minden.

Following the round of golf, the members retired to the curling rink for a supper and prize presentations.

The low gross winners for the day were Bruce Scribner and Ellen Scribner. Topping the low net category were Roy Windover and Leona McIntosh. Runners-up were George Critchon and Chris Dollo.

The prize for the longest drives were presented to Shane Blakey and Phyllis Campbell. Doug Calver claimed the closest to the hole prize on the eighth hole.

John Beachli, on the links for the first time, took the prize for the most honest golfer along with Shirley Brandon. Shirley Brandon also received three new golf balls for being the golfer who lost the most balls, 3, during the day's play. Jack Dicker shared the honour. Alberta Maitland received the prize for the highest count on a single hole.

One of the organizers, Ed Pettinger, said the day was a good outing for all concerned. He noted that without the help of his many volunteers including registrar and handicapper Graham Gilhooly, the day would not have come out so smoothly.

Farmstead improvement program

- Ag. report -

Just recently the Honourable Dennis Timbrell, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture and Food, announced a Farmstead Improvement Program. Grants of up to $2,000 per eligible farming operation are available.

Since the program was announced, a number of changes have been made. You may be eligible.

Eligible farmers must produce at least $12,000 worth of products per year or own a farm with at least 100 acres (40 hectares) in production. It is not important who is doing the farming. The farm may be rented out or share-cropped.

Improvements include fences, farm buildings and the removal of derelict buildings.

Fencing covers the installation of a new wire fence. The cost of removing the old fence and fencerow plus the cost of the new fence is eligible. Metal gates which are a part of the new fence are also eligible. Temporary fences are not eligible.

Farm building improvements can be made to any building other than the house and attached garage. Painting the exterior including the roof, installing new siding or roofing on an existing building or repairing the roof and foundation of an existing building are included. Construction of new buildings is not eligible. A new roof on a manure pit or silo is also eligible.

It has just been announced that barn doors and windows, eavestroughs and lightning rods are eligible under the Farmstead Improvement Program.

The cost of removing derelict buildings on the farm can be claimed under the program.

The grant covers 50% of the eligible costs to a maximum of $2,000. Eligible costs include wages paid to non-family labour or for a contractor's labour plus material costs. Material costs must be equal to or less than labour costs.

As further information becomes available, it will be announced.

The Ontario Pork Congress was held last week at the Stratford Coliseum in Stratford.

On opening day, the Ontario Minister of Agriculture, the Honourable Dennis Timbrell, addressed the producers. At that time he announced a payment for producers enrolled in the sow-weaner stabilization program.

For each sow enrolled, producers will receive a gross amount of $44.72. This payment is for the six month period ending March 31, 1982.

Kinettes donate to hospital fund

The equipment fund at the Minden Red Cross Hospital is now $200 richer thanks to the efforts of the Minden Kinettes. Club representatives Norma Amyotte, left and Yvonne Nye, presented hospital administrator Jean Anderson with a cheque for the fund. The club also donated $50 worth of toys for amusing the young patients at the hospital. Rachael Wilson, visiting with the Kinettes that day, holds some of the toys.

The proceeds of this year's Snowarama for Timmy were presented to the executive director of the Five Counties Children's Centre at a recent meeting of the Minden Rotary Club. Organizer of the annual snowmobile run, Lionel Walker presented Alice Johnson, with a cheque for over $6700, for the centre's work. The money will be used to help further the rehabilitation classes for children held at the centre in Peterborough. Commented Johnson, "I'm extremely pleased and surprised to accept your donation. I came here expecting to be presented with a cheque for $1000. I'm really overwhelmed."

The following is a presentation of some of the new books available at the Minden Library.

Juvenile Fiction

Author: Eve Bunting. Title: Skate Patrol. An easy-to-read account of 2 young fellows who try to solve a minor crime and their mistakes. It is quite exciting and of course they are on roller skates.

Juvenile Non-Fiction

Author: Hooks. Title: Maria's Cave. This Maria's story, set in Spain, of how she and her father, using a donkey to carry supplies go to search for Stone Age writings or paintings.

One of their first items was an ivory needle thousands of years old. A good book to interest young people in exploration.

Adult Fiction

Author: Elaine Suss. Title: Money Marriage.

The time is the early 70's, when conglomerates blossomed. Martin Stein, the founder of a chic and profitable little boutique soap company called Wandas and his wife Evelyn receive an irresistible offer. If they will bring their small business into a newly formed health food and vitamin conglomerate - a seemingly made-to-order home for their natural soaps and bath oils - they will in turn get hefty financial backing to further future growth; five years employment contracts with renewal options and last but not least a chunk of stock likely soon to be worth millions - all this with complete autonomy.

It is almost too good to be true - and the ensuing chaos is wryly described by Evelyn, Wanda's stylist and designer. Long the centre of the Stein's lives, Wanda in spite of every assurance is inexorably manoeuvred away from this hard-working dedicated couple. What becomes of their company is the heart of a story that is part slapstick farce, part great American nightmare.

Help your Heart Fund Help your Heart

Adult Non-Fiction

Author: Gary Lautens. Title: Take My Family... Please. A refreshing book without sex or violence. Everyday life with a well-loved family at its best.

From the furrow

- by Ernest Hills -

For those among you who called for a dry season there are still takers for predictions of a winter without snow.

Those few who earned their water wings by braving the deluge June 15, at the general meeting of the Farmers Assoc. are reminded that a glass of goats' milk with a teaspoon of pure maple syrup is still the best cure for nasal drip and congestion due to cold (not to mention constipation, hangover, and the remnant pangs of spring heartache).

The meeting, which proceeded despite the adverse weather, true to the code of the Universal Farmer, included a walkalong of Mr. Bernie Trepanier's Babylonian-type garden endeavours, as well as a visit with Mr. Bert Harrison, where we were permitted to view Mr. Harrison's horticultural genius as demonstrated by his greenhouse operation and garden.

Of course to the untrained eye mud is only mud, however to the area farmers in attendance it became clear that mud is wet soil. Seriously, for those among you, hobbyists and otherwise, who bewail the horticultural limitations of gardening in Haliburton County, both gardens, through the hard work of their curators, illustrated the tremendous potential for early yields of many vegetables as well as their adaptability to the realities of our climate and our short season.

Despite the bad weather, and perhaps because of the bad weather, such occasions always provide an opportunity for discussion and neighbourly good-will. In addition, our visit to Mr. Harrison's greenhouse clearly illustrated the resourcefulness and ingenuity of a man who has made an important contribution to agriculture hereabouts. Our thanks go out to Mr. and Mrs. Trepanier and Mr. Harrison for welcoming us into their peaceful corner of the world where the greatest reward is watching life spring forth from a tiny seed.

Who was the Haliburton farmer caught humming the Beatles' tune 'Octopuses Garden' in Bernie's berries?

Other important farm news includes the go-ahead by Minden council for the establishment of a permanent site for a farmers' market. The Haliburton County Farmers Association is grateful for the support and enthusiasm of the Minden Business Improvement Association and Minden council members.

In many of the major agricultural communities a "farmers' market" is a focal point in the community weekly vitality, following timeless marketing practices established in agrarian societies of old. Such a market is a place for neighbours to meet, for dickering and banter, for urban townspeople to share a taste of the countryside and greet its inhabitants.

I have commented often to area farmers on the potential a farmers' market presents for expansion and development, as well as the economic advantages. Stalls at the market site are under the auspices of the Haliburton County Farmers' Association, and producers on-hand must be members in the Association.

To the membership I mention that anyone interested in a stall for the purpose of selling produce from your garden, preserves, eggs, or other relevant farm goods produced in the course of your operation, are asked to contact myself, Ernie Hills. We are also welcoming enquiries concerning the sale of baked goods and crafts, keeping in mind that the vendors must be members of the Farmers' Association.

To you, the general public, we ask you to share our enthusiasm, to bear with us through our growing pains, and participate not only as consumers befitting area agriculture, but within the meaning of community spirit.

Opening date for the farmers' market is Saturday, July 31. Watch for advertisements in the events column of this paper for time and place. Other dates to remember include Tuesday, July 13, at which time the general meeting of the Association will include a crop tour, with many items of interest to area farmers. The Thompsons took the service Sunday night for Rev. Burgess who was elsewhere - a real nice service. It was good to be there.

"The Fenelon Gals" came Monday afternoon and put on a real good show. When they were finished, we were loathe to let them go. Their costumes were so lovely, the acting just sublime, especially the one of "Darling Clementine". We thank you gals for coming to entertain so fine, and look forward to when you all come again sometime.

Tuesday morning James Cooper of West Guilford Gospel Church took the service here at Hyland Crest, and I would like to say it was one of the best. He spoke quite lengthily on Psalm seventy-one. He explained it fully, a job well-done. Fred Ballard came again to play for Mrs. Taylor, who is still away - and by the way we thank them both for coming this lovely June day.

Tuesday night we had our "Over Seventy" dinner. Once again our head cook and helpers really were the winners. Two hundred and seventy people sat down to dine, and were served a dinner that was really fine. They served all these dinners, and could have several more. They all deserve a golden crown, when they reach that Golden Shore. Then we were entertained so very fine by Marilyn Stouffer, and Melissa Stephens after we had dined.

Wednesday morning Doris took us in the bus to Extensicare. The tables were all set out on the lawn when we got there, but we couldn't win for the rain came showering down, which sent us in. They served us a real nice lunch, and said they were glad we came, and be sure to come again. Then after we had eaten, the sun began to shine. They entertained us on the lawn, we had a jolly time. They also had a fashion show which was a lot of fun. It was hard to tell which had really won.

To Jackie Hamilton, who is leaving here - Dear Jackie: When they say you are leaving some time in July, and of course we know the reason why. You are going to marry one Gary Smith, the man you have chosen to spend your life with. It is the hope of the residents here, that your love will grow stronger with each passing year. Congratulations to you both we all send, and that you'll stay together 'till life's journey ends.

It is nice to have the Fred Parkers along on these bus trips, always on the watch that we don't fall nor slip.

Thursday morning the pupils from the Archie Stouffer school, where they learn to read and write, also the golden rule, came over here to Hyland Crest, put on a lovely play for us, and gave us of their best. Thank you for coming, the acting was quite grand. It's nice we have such talent so near at hand.

Thursday afternoon, the Ladies of the Auxiliary put on a tea party. It was nice to see Elsie Bursey here again, so hale and hearty.

Friday we watched two real good movies - "The Three Bears and I" and "On Golden Pond". Sorry to miss singing. Had company come, and it was too late when they left.

We went to the Circus

Friday night - four others and myself. We didn't take my wife along, I laid her on the shelf. We ate popcorn, and watched the show and had a lot of fun. We really were surprised to see how well the show was done.

This has been Senior Citizen's Week, and here at Hyland Crest to entertain us royally, the girls have done their best.

You are getting pretty well along in years, if you can remember when a woman had to have a lot of clothes unfastened when she fainted.

Hi! Hope you are having fun these days. I guess some of you will be going away for your holidays, and some will be going on day trips, which are lots of fun too. We'll be taking some trips to Bracebridge and Midland. Maybe we'll see you there.

What does someone else have to take before you can have it?

Your photograph

Why should an elephant carry a key?

To unlock its trunk

What kind of shoes are made out of banana skins?

Slippers

What belongs to you but is used more often by others?

Your name

What goes from Boston to New York without moving?

A railroad track

What is steam?

Cold water going crazy with the heat

Why are move stars such cool people?

They have so many fans

There are two t's in THAT

Why did no one play cards on Noah's Ark?

IN MEMORIAM

PROCENKO - In loving memory of Michael, taken from us June 23, 1978—

Gone are the days we used to share

But in our hearts you are always there

The gates of memory will never close

We miss you more than anyone knows

Behind our smiles there lies a tear

Of the one we lost and loved so dear

Our hearts still ache as we whisper low

God bless you Michael, we miss you so.

Mom, Dad and Lisa

TOYE: In memory of my loving husband Timothy, who was taken from us July 1, 1979

I think of you in silence:

I often speak your name

All I have are memories:

And your picture in a frame

My heart still aches in sadness

My silent tears still flow

For what it meant to lose you Tim,

No one will ever know.

Forever loved and remembered by wife Debbie.
